ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

GVEC is a progressive cooperative serving over 100,000 consumers in South Central Texas. Our region spans a 3,500 square-mile area over 13 counties in close proximity to San Antonio and Austin—two of the fastest growing cities in the nation. Major highway arteries, including Interstates 10 and 35 and State Highway 130, provide Northern, Southern, Eastern and Western access.

In our western territory, Guadalupe and Comal counties have established themselves as a manufacturing hub. In recent years, they've attracted Fortune 500 companies such as Caterpillar, CMC Steel, Amazon, Niagara Bottling Company and others. In our eastern territory, Gonzales and Lavaca counties are home to a cluster of food-related industries: Adams Extract, Kitchen Pride Mushroom Farm, Holmes Food, Tyson, Calmaine, J Bar B Foods, Eddy Packing, NestFresh Eggs and others.

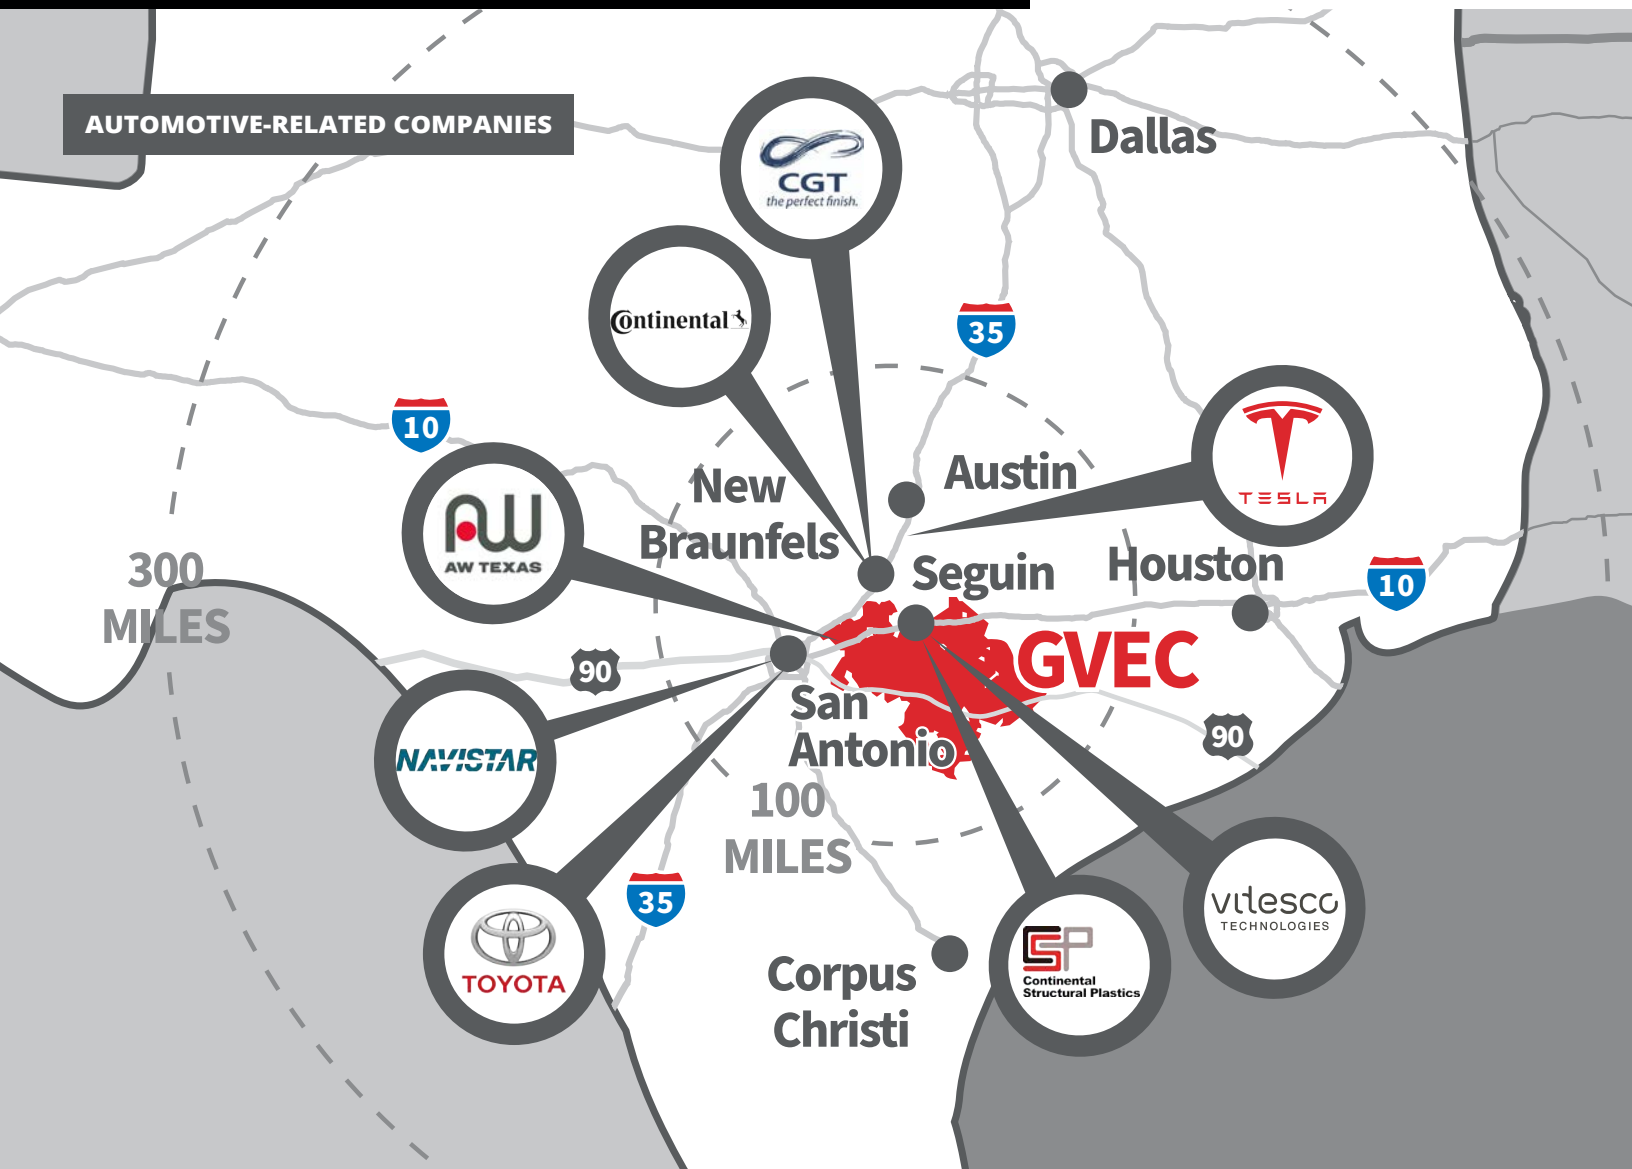

The region is also poised to serve new and emerging innovations in the automotive industry, highlighted by the recent opening of AW Texas—a subsidiary of Japanese automotive giant Aisin Corporation. Other major automotive companies, including Toyota, Navistar and Tesla, drawn by the region's substantial economic benefits, have also expanded across South Central Texas in recent years.
